PREFACE

The Hamilton Holt Papers were presented to Rollins College by his children. This Collection is of value and significance because its contents touch upon the broad areas of journalism, politics, social reform, labor history, higher education, and movements for peace and international organization. A brief glance at this Register should confirm this fact and reveal the extensive scope of these materials.

I should like to express the gratitude of Rollins College to Dr. Warren F. Kuehl for supervising the organization of this Collection. In this undertaking he drew from his intimate knowledge of the Holt Papers which were utilized in his biography, Hamilton Holt: Journalist, Internationalist, Educator (University of Florida Press, 1960).

We are likewise indebted to Mr. Peter Robinson for his painstaking and thorough processing of the Collection and the compilation of this Register.

We are deeply grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Conger of the Conger Foundation for the generous grant which made possible the processing of the Hamilton Holt Papers. Mrs. Faith Emeny Conger is a graduate and trustee of Rollins. Miss Constance Holt, sister of Dr. Holt, also contributed to this project. The cost of processing the William H. Short Papers was defrayed by his son, Mr. Frederick W. Short.

The Hamilton Holt Papers are open to qualified scholars. Inquiries are welcome and should be directed to the Librarian, Mills Memorial Library, Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE

Hamilton Holt, journalist, internationalist, educator, was born on August 19, 1872 in Brooklyn, New York. His parents George Chandler Holt, a federal judge, and Mary Louisa Bowen Holt were of colonial American and English ancestry. Holt attended Yale University where his chief academic interests were economics and sociology; he received a Bachelor of Arts degree from there in 1894, and then continued to study these subjects from 1894 to 1897 in postgraduate courses at Columbia University.

In the fall of 1894, Holt began to work part-time on The Independent magazine staff. In 1897 he gave up his graduate studies and became managing editor, a position he held until 1913 when he became owner and editor of the publication. Under Holt, The Independent was transformed from a religious to a secular magazine of broad political, social, and economic interests. The publication also had its impact on journalistic reform, for its owner experimented with simplified spelling and modern formats, as well as advocating the establishment of an endowed magazine free from the influence of advertisers. In 1921 Holt resigned his position as editor and remained as consulting editor until the magazine merged with The Weekly Review.

As early as 1907, Holt was known as a vigorous exponent of international organization, a cause which he championed until his death. He attended the second Hague Peace Conference as a representative of The Independent in 1907. In 1911 he served as President of the National Peace Congress. He later helped found the League to Enforce Peace and represented that society at the Paris conference which led to the establishment of the League of Nations. During the fight over United States membership in the League, Holt toured the country as a leading advocate of that organization. In the summer of 1922, he went to Geneva to study the Third Assembly of the League of Nations and its accomplishments. The next summer found him again in Europe where he again saw the League in action and where he studied the Permanent Court of International Justice. In 1927 he attended the Eighth Assembly of the League of Nations. During the 1930's he was in consultation with the State Department over the strategy to bring the United States into the World Court. When the San Francisco Conference on the United Nations assembled in 1945, Holt was on hand as an observer and proponent.

In his efforts to promote world peace through international organization, Holt was the founder and leader of many international societies. He helped organize the Italy-America Society, the Netherlands American Foundation, the Friends of Poland, and the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association. Furthermore, he was President of the American-Scandinavian Foundation and the Greek-American Club. At one time, he was executive director of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation and lecturer for the American branch of the International Conciliation and World Peace Foundation, as well as one of the honorary directors of the World Federalists USA.

Holt's indefatigable campaign in quest of world peace won him the respect of numerous foreign countries. To show their gratitude, they showered him with the following decorations and honors: Commander of the Japanese Order of the Sacred Treasure (1903); Officer of the Greek Order of George I (1919); Officer of the French Order of Public Instruction (1920); Officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy (1920); Knight of the French Legion of Honor (1921); Knight of the Swedish North Star (1923); Commander in the Serbian Order of Saint Sava (1931); the Danish decoration of Pro Danie (1946). He was also awarded nine honorary degrees from American colleges and universities.

A third facet of Holt's career, that of educator, began when he became President of Rollins College in 1925. At Rollins he inaugurated the Conference Plan of Study which, with other experimental programs, attracted widespread attention throughout the 1930's. Under Holt's presidency, Rollins also saw notable changes in its physical plant and in the size of its student body. In 1949, Holt retired as President and died two years later, on April 26, 1951.

Besides his three major interests - journalism, internationalism, and education - Holt was active in other areas throughout his life. He served in 1908 as President of the New York State Initiative and Referendum League, was an arbiter on the board of arbitration of the cloak, suit, and skirt trade, in addition to being a member of the National Institute of Social Sciences and the Simplified Spelling Board. In the political realm, he waged in 1924 an unsuccessful campaign in Connecticut for a position in the United States Senate, and in 1950 he ran for a seat in the legislature of that state. He also played an active role in many presidential elections.

Despite the multiplicity of his activities, Holt found time to write two books, Undistinguished Americans (1906) and Commercialism and Journalism (1909), and hundreds of editorials and articles. He also wrote the introduction to William Howard Taft's The United States and Peace (1914).

Hamilton Holt Papers
1872-1951

Scope and Content Note

This collection of papers, consisting of ninety-three manuscript boxes and thirty-five scrapbooks, covers a span of years beginning in 1872 and ending in 1951. It is composed of correspondence, diaries, biographical and genealogical data, legal documents, galley proofs, copies of The Independent magazine, autographed pictures, newspaper clippings, manuscripts of books and proposed books, pamphlets, leaflets, speeches, writings, and book reviews. It contains data pertaining to journalism, education, politics, labor, social reform, peace movements, and international organization.

The material has been organized into eight categories: (1) correspondence, (2) diaries and appointment books, (3) pamphlets, (4) topical folders, (5) The Independent, (6) memorabilia and newspaper clippings, (7) speeches and writings, and (8) scrapbooks. To facilitate the use of the collection, this register includes a name index for the correspondence and a subject index for the scrapbooks; the card catalogue in Mills Memorial Library at Rollins College includes a listing of the pamphlet section.

The correspondence files contain approximately seven thousand letters. The folders are arranged in chronological order as are the letters within each folder. A brief indication of important subjects discussed in each folder is contained in this register in Descriptive Series One.

The diaries and appointment book are also an integral part of the Holt Papers. The diaries cover Holt's boyhood years through college days at Yale, 1890-1893.

The appointment books, 1900-1950, are valuable to determine dates and places of meetings of the many societies and clubs in which Holt was involved.

The pamphlet collection is composed of forty-nine boxes, containing approximately eleven thousand items. It accords the researcher information on education and journalism but is probably more valuable for the numerous entries pertaining to international organization and the peace movement. Official publications of the Lake Mohonk Conference on Arbitration, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and the League of Nations are part of this series. The card catalogue previously mentioned should be consulted to determine the holdings.

There are thirteen boxes of topical materials arranged in alphabetical order. A listing of the contents of each folder is given within this register in Descriptive Series Four.

The Holt Papers also contain two boxes of miscellaneous copies of The Independent from 1869 to 1914. The Mills Memorial Library also has the office file volumes of the magazine from 1872 to 1921 in which many unsigned items are identified.

Three boxes of memorabilia and loose newspaper clippings form another series of the collection. The clippings cover the years 1910-1950 and are arranged chronologically and topically. Descriptive Series Six indicates some of the topics covered.

Ten boxes of Holt's speeches and writings, containing over two hundred items, form another segment of the collection. This series covers the years 1897-1950 and presents Holt's views on education, journalism politics, war, and international organization. One box in this series contains book reviews written by Holt. The speeches and writings are arranged chronologically, the book reviews alphabetically. Reference should also be made here to A Bibliography of the Writings of Hamilton Holt compiled by Warren F. Kuehl, Rollins College Bulletin LIV (September, 1959).

The final series is one of the most exhaustive of the collection -- thirty-five scrapbooks, largely of newspaper clippings fully identified and dated.

Holt subscribed to a clipping service for most of his life; hence, these volumes include data upon virtually all of the varied organizations in which he participated.

A subject index to the scrapbooks is included in this register.

THE WILLIAM H. SHORT PAPERS
(1868-1935)

A valuable adjunct to the Hamilton Holt papers are the papers of William H. Short. Short, like Holt, was a devout believer in world peace through international organization. In quest of this lofty objective, he was active in many peace societies and international conferences, serving as Secretary of the New York Peace Society, the League to Enforce Peace, and the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association. He also took an active interest in education as a Rollins College administrator. His papers, comprising three manuscript boxes, possess valuable information on these two areas.

One segment of this collection contains letters pertaining to the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association, the Anti-Imperialist League, the New York Peace Society, the American Peace Society, the League to Enforce Peace, the American Scandinavian Foundation, and Rollins College. There is also a 1917 letter to Colonel E. M. House containing a list of Americans who had a sympathetic interest in Japan.

Pamphlets comprise another section of the papers. Among the entries are the following: Plans and Protocols to End War by James T. Shotwell; The Covenant of the League of Nations; Synopsis of the Geneva Protocol for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes; An Opening Chapter in World Co-operation by Raymond B. Fosdick; Protocol for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes; Parable of the Rich Householder by Charles H. Levermore; The League of Nations: Its Constitution and Organisation; A Plan of Education to Develop International Justice and Friendship; and several publications of the League to Enforce Peace.

The third box of materials is of a miscellaneous nature, containing minutes of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association, the by-laws and list of officers and members of the Council on Foreign Relations, a handbook of the City Club of New York, a framed picture of Short, pictures of several Rollins students, reports and minutes of the American Scandinavian Foundation, trustee reports and memoranda on Rollins College, and newspaper clippings. There are also copies of some of Short's speeches, including one of historical significance in which he discusses "The Origins of the League of Nations."
